Mobile Artist Tools

Springboard for the Arts’ Ready Go is a collection of artist-created, mobile tools that are purpose-built to pique curiosity, prompt interaction and facilitate engagement. The Mobile Artist Tools are available for hire by libraries, non-profits, cities and businesses seeking new and creative ways to interact with their patrons, communities, employees and customers.

For this opportunity, we are seeking three artists or artist teams in West Central Minnesota to create new Mobile Artist Tools designed to spark participation, conversation and interaction around topics including (but not limited to) environmental stewardship and sustainability. Artists in any medium (writing, music, printmaking, visual arts, sculpture, etc) are welcome to apply.

Eligibility:

- Individual artists or artist teams are welcome to apply
- Lead Artist(s) must be based in West Central Minnesota (Becker, Otter Tail, Wilkin, Douglas, Stearns, Traverse, Stevens or Grant County)
- Artists should be willing and able to travel throughout this region if they are selected for their commission.
- Artist(s) should incorporate initial programming into their Ready Go proposal that fosters conversation about environmental stewardship and sustainability.
- Artists/teams are not required to have previous mobile art experience, but will need to demonstrate ability to complete a large project.

Sustainability Goals for Initial Ready Go Programming:

Artists interested in applying should consider how their mobile tool can effectively engage the community and address the themes of environmental stewardship and sustainability. They should also think about the tool's potential for adaptability and future use beyond the initial commission.
Examples of environmental stewardship and sustainability topics include (but are not limited to) conversation about food traditions, gardening, agriculture, clothing mending, repurposing trash, habitat, invasive species, etc.

Tool adaptability

Tools can be designed to address the above environmental topics while also being adaptable for other future uses and communities. Alternatively, tools can be entirely dedicated to sustainability themes.

Both of the following examples would be appropriate approaches to this RFQ:

- A mobile tool that utilizes screen printing may develop an initial series of poster printing activities that highlight the importance of the prairie ecosystem in Minnesota. However, the artist could later create posters about other topics as they work with other community partners in the future.
- A mobile clothing mending tool, which would by its nature always be connected to sustainability.

The idea is that an artist may want to create a tool that can address environmental stewardship and sustainability AND have the potential to be adaptable for other uses as the artist continues to offer it for other communities. Or create a Mobile Tool that is entirely focused on sustainability.

Project Details and Parameters

- The three $6,000 commissions include all aspects involved in creating a mobile tool that will first be tested and demonstrated in partnership with Springboard for the Arts in May/June 2025, and then added to the Ready Go roster.
- Required aspects include: design, fabrication, programming development, tool testing (including supplies needed), and commitment to being on the Ready Go roster.
- Selected artists will participate in 4 cohort meetings to support planning and design, participate in peer feedback and to receive accessibility training.
- The new mobile art tool must be completed (fabricated and tested) by May 15, 2025 and be ready to demonstrate at 4 community events (which will be identified by Springboard) between May 15 and June 30, 2025. Those who cannot meet these deadlines are asked not to apply.

- Upon completion of this project, the artist/s retain ownership of the mobile tool they created. The tool will be added to Springboard for the Arts’ existing roster of tools at www.readygoart.com, and the artist will be available for hire. Commissioned artists must commit to having their mobile tool available for hire on the Ready Go site for at least 18 months.
- At least one lead artist must have residence in West Central Minnesota (Becker, Clay, Douglas, Grant, Mahnomen, Otter Tail, Pope, Stevens, Traverse, and Wilkin Counties).

Additional info

- The work and events Mobile Artist Tools do require an interest in people and working with all sorts of folks- please make sure this is something you are excited about!
- Many of the most successful Ready Go tools provide opportunities for making- artists guiding an open process together with participants.
- We want mobile tools to encourage participants to be involved at whatever level is most comfortable for them. Sometimes that's actively making art, sometimes it's observing the process, or just talking with the artist about the project.
- We are especially interested in supporting projects led or created by artists or artist teams who identify as BIPOC, Native, LGBTQIA+, and/or artists with disabilities.

Note on artist teams: By artist team we mean up to 3 artists working together on the artistic aspects of the commission. If you are planning to hire or include a technical consultant or fabricator, they would not be considered part of the artist team. Teams will pick one lead artist to create a SlideRoom account and submit their team application.

Selection Criteria

Responses to RFQ and full proposals will be evaluated on the following criteria:

- Quality of artist’s past work as demonstrated in the submitted materials.
- Feasibility/technical considerations.
- Evidence of passion for working and creating art that fosters interaction, conversation, learning, and curiosity.
